Feast of the Holy Family: A Family Shaped by Grace

One of the wonderful mysteries we celebrate at Christmas is the beauty of God's love made visible in His choice to become one with us in the tenderness and simplicity of a family. In the Holy Family, we see how God cherishes the ordinary rhythms of daily life, choosing them as the first home of His love.

On this first Sunday after Christmas, we gather under the patronage of the Holy Family, asking God, the Father of every family, to deepen our experience of His love. We honor Jesus, Mary, and Joseph for showing and teachings us what holiness looks like in the ordinary moments of daily life. Their trust in God, fidelity to one another, and quiet courage shine as a guiding light for families today. They teach us the virtues that allow love to flourish—patience, humility, kindness, forgiveness, and charity. Today's readings invite us to build and nurture homes rooted in God's wisdom and love.

In the first reading, the book of Sirach offers a compassionate and practical vision of family life. It calls parents to guide with tenderness and wisdom, and children to honor and care for their parents, especially in moments of weakness or vulnerability. Saint Paul in his letter to the Colossians, deepens this call by urging us to "put on" compassion, humility, gentleness, and patience; virtues that transform our homes into places where God's love becomes visible and real.

The Holy Family themselves knew fear, uncertainty, and hardship. In the Gospel, Joseph responds faithfully to God's warning in a dream, taking Mary and the child Jesus and fleeing to Egypt to escape Herod's deadly threat. After Herod's death, he again follows the angel's guidance, returning to the land of Israel, and ultimately settling in Nazareth, fulfilling what the prophets had foretold.

The journey of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph reflects the realities many families face today—unexpected challenges, moments of upheaval, and the need for courage grounded in faith. Their example calls us to trust God, to listen for His guiding voice, and to remain steadfast in His love.

Like them, we are invited to welcome Christ into our homes and hearts, so He may shape our families into living signs of His love, mercy, and faithfulness. May the Lord bless our families with peace, unity, and renewed grace. Let us make every effort to live in peace, to forgive one another, and to nurture a spirit of love and gratitude always.

Wishing you all a blessed and prosperous New Year.

Justice for Orphans

'Pope Leo reminds us that as disciples of Christ we are called to care for the less fortunate and marginalized. An opportunity to help children in need is coming to our Sacred Heart family. On Tuesday, January 13 at 6:30pm Gene Knoth, coordinator for Delaware County, will give a presentation on Justice for Orphans. We will have an opportunity to join with area churches to provide for the needs of children. Please come and learn about this program.
