5th Sunday in Ordinary Time:

Becoming What God Calls us to Be

This Sunday's readings invite us to reflect more deeply on who we are as disciples and what God calls us to be - people whose faith shines through action. They remind us that we are meant to become instruments of transformation, revealing God's visible presence in the world through the witness of our words and deeds.

In the Gospel, Jesus uses the familiar images of salt and light to describe our mission: "You are the salt of the earth and light of the world."

Salt preserves, heals, and enhances flavor; light dispels darkness, reveals what is hidden, and guides the way forward.

These images speak powerfully to our vocation as disciples. We are called to enrich the world with God's goodness, and to give flavor to life through our compassion and loving service to others.

The first reading from Isaiah shows us what faithful living looks like in action. God desires more than ritual observance, calling us to live lives marked by mercy and justice-feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, sheltering the homeless, and caring for the oppressed.

When we act with compassion, God's light breaks forth in our little world and turns places of darkness into hope.

The responsorial psalm echoes this message, praising those who are generous, steadfast, and kind. Such people reflect God's heart by tending to the needs of others and bringing encouragement where there is hardship.

In the second reading, Saint Paul reflects on his own ministry in Corinth. He came in weakness and humility, relying not on his own abilities but on the power of God. Yet through his faithfulness, he became a light that led others to Christ. His example reminds us that God works through our limitations when we trust Him and allow His grace to guide us.

We are called to make a difference in the world. With God's grace, we can be salt that enriches the world and light that reveals His truth. We can mirror His compassion by lifting the weary, encouraging the discouraged and welcoming the lonely.

As we enter this week, may we choose to live our discipleship with purpose, allowing our words and actions bring healing, hope, and the joy and freedom that come from walking with God.

Fr. Dr. Ben, Pastor.

Jesus said, "In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father in heaven." (Matthew 5:16)

Adults: In what way might you be hiding the light of Christ from others? What could you do to improve this?

Kids: How can you let the light of Christ in you shine for others this week?
